WOMAN SUFFRAGE ARRESTED

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., May 2.—Three detectives arrived here today from New York city and immediately assumed their duties as personal bodyguards of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. They were engaged as a result of threats made in New York by anarchists to kill Mr. Rockefeller. Guards have also been placed at every rate in the high wire fence that surrounds the Rockefeller estate at Pocantico Hills, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., remains close to his home and has practically abandoned his golfing since the first threats were made in New York. He has not been seen out of doors for two days.

NEW YORK, May 2.—Sweet Marie Goss, the anarchist who threatened to kill John D. Rockefeller, Jr., was arrested today on her way to the Standard Oil office at No. 30 Broadway. She exhibited no signs of nervousness and when she arrived at the Oak street police station she maintained a defiant attitude retorting her previous declaration that "Rockefeller must be wiped a fifth face of the earth."

The woman gave her age as twenty-three and her birthplace as Austria. She refused both marriage and a divorce. She said she would give $10,000 to get out of jail, but that she was in the use. I would like to see the Rockefeller. This has called my place as I had intended to take part in the demonstration at Rockefeller's church tomorrow. I don't care what they do, but I will say one thing: Rockefeller had better watch out for me. When I get out of here I will lay for him.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Secretary of War Garrison today issued a proclamation calling upon individuals, firms, associations and corporations in the Colorado strike districts to give up their arms. The proclamation was sent the Federal troops in Colorado to be posted throughout the trouble zone.

DENVER, Col., May 2.—Two men lost their lives today when fire, alleged to have been of incendiary origin, destroyed four saloons, one rooming house, a hotel and a barber shop at Oak Creek, a mining camp in Northwestern Colorado. Samuel Bell, owner of the structure.

WELLESLEY COLLEGE SUFFRAGE

Seven thousand women are pledged to march in the great Boston suffrage parade for "Votes for Women" today, and it is confidently expected by the leaders that not less than 10,000 will actually be in line. Thousands of the leading women and men of Boston will be in the long line of march, which starts from Massachusetts avenue at 5 p. m., at the corner of Beacon street, proceeding down Beacon street for review by Governor Walsh at the State House. Plans will add to the picturesque and song sung by the marchers are expected to swell the enthusiasm of the greatest equal suffrage demonstration in the history of New England.

From the State House the procession will go through School street to review by the Mayor, to Washington street, to Elliot street, to Park square, to Boylston street, and down Tremont street to Tremont Temple, where it will disband to join in a mass meeting.

Until the marchers are on the way, anti-suffrage women workers, who began their labor early today, will be selling roses, the official emblem of the "anits."

The anti-suffrage heads hope to have 100,000 roses worn as a protest against equal suffrage.

The roses were put on sale at seven of the leading hotels, and were also offered for sale on all the downtown streets.

Mrs. Henry Preston White, asked about the charges that the "anits" were trying to disrupt the suffrage plans, said:

"We do not believe in heckling, or disturbing, or in any militant tactics. We leave that for our friends, the enemy, to do."

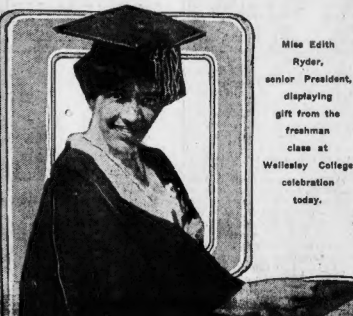

"We believe in dignified protest, and we make no false accusations either of stealing placards or disrupting parades. We shall stop the sale of our roses at 4 o'clock, when the suffragettes may have planned in any way to interfere with the parade."

Mrs. William Lowell Putnam of 43 Beacon street, who decorated her household with anti-suffrage colors, said today, looking anything but fragrant will view the parade from a balcony in the house.

WELLESLEY STATUS GONE, SCRUB GIRL ON ANNUAL MAY FROLIC

Miss Edith Ryder, senior President, displaying gift from the freshman class at Wellesley College celebration today.

Wellesley gave itself up to May day festivities at dawn today and gave for a brief period between 1 and 12 o'clock, when classes intervened, the day was a round of celebration.

They began at 8 o'clock, the Wellesley girls did, to make ready for the real May Day in the afternoon. For years it was the custom to scrub a certain street, the "Backwoodman," which stood on the south veranda of College Hall. Two years ago that status mysteriously disappeared, in the night time and never more was seen.

Then the girls scrubbed Harriet Martineau, a statue in College Hall Centre, or the "Ingham," a circle of cement walk in front of College Hall. But the College Hall fire destroyed the statue, and the "Ingham" is forbidden ground because of the danger of falling anything to scrub. Miss Louise Russell of Doublesider volunteered.

REAL SCRUB DAY.
They found her on the library steps, gas stung over one shoulder, a perfect picture of a backwoodman. Twelve seniors, aprons tucked up, hair screwed in a knot, scrubbing brushes and tooth brushes in their hands, proceeded to polish off Louise. There was a display of effigies in front of the library—parodies on college characters and on the prevailing fashion and dance. Two bronze boys, figures on the bronze doors of the library, were dressed with wire paper and tinsel into a perfect representation of the old "dick" Tins.

Allice Shumway of Newton Highlands, president of the freshmen class, and "Queen of the May," presented the May basket to Edith Ryder.

Then came bony rolling. The seniors, all in caps and gowns, lined up in front of the burned College Hall and rolled—rolling the bony boys and the freshmen class. There was a display of effigies in front of the library—parodies on college characters and on the prevailing fashion and dance. Two bronze boys, figures on the bronze doors of the library, were dressed with wire paper and tinsel into a perfect representation of the old "dick" Tins.

Watertown Man Run Down by Auto
Charles West of Watertown was struck and badly bruised by an auto that strided onto the sidewalk at Summer and Otis streets, pinning him to the ground and endangering a number of others. William McCloud, a New York City lawyer, was driving the auto. He turned out for a passenger who was just as West stepped off the curb.

Death of Senior in Groton School
GROTON, May 2.—Henry Dwight Hodgwick, Jr., of New York, died of pneumonia at the Groton School today. His father and mother arrived a few hours before his death, accompanied by a New York physician. He was a member of the senior class and had been ill only five days.

1,500 Children in "Clean-Up" Parade
Headed by the Boston Newsboys' Band, 1,500 West End children marched through the principal streets of Ward 8 carrying banners and mounted poster cards calling attention to the "Clean Up and Paint Up" campaign. The line, consisting of both boys and girls, represented four schools of the West End who are affiliated with the Junior Municipal League. The school represented included Wendell Phillips School, Wollastons School, and the Bowdoin School.

ARMY PLOT TO OVERTHROW HUERTA OF HIS LIFE

WASHINGTON, MAY 2.—FROM THREE SOURCES TODAY CAME CONFIRMATION OF THE REPORTED ARMY PLOT TO OVERTHROW AND PERHAPS ASSASSINATE VICTORIANO HUERTA. THE THREE VERSIONS AGREE THAT THE PLOT WAS HEADED BY PORTILLO V ROJAS, DEPOSED MINISTER OF FOREIGN AFFAIRS, AND GENERAL BLANQUET, WAR MINISTER. HEURTA IS SECLUDED IN CHAPULTEPEC CASTLE WITH 200 SOLDIERS WHOM HE COUNTS AS LOYAL ABOUT HIM.

The report of the plot first came from Mexico City, was confirmed by an independent dispatch from the Mexican Capital, and received final confirmation in a cable from London to the effect that the British Minister, Sir Lionel Carden, had advised the Foreign Office there of the plot's existence.

LONDON, May 2.—Confirmation of an army plot in Mexico City to overthrow President Huerta was received here today in code dispatches from the Mexican capital.

They intimate that the conspiracy was balked by Sir Lionel Carden, the British Minister, who warned Huerta that his army, headed by General Blanquet, was planning his downfall, and even his assassination if necessary.

According to these messages there was a long session of Huerta's Cabinet at Mexico City last night, at which the President accused Blanquet of having started the conspiracy and served notice on his War Minister that he would have to give a pledge that he would render loyal support to the government or he would be arrested.

The Cabinet meeting was held at Chapultepec Castle, around which Huerta had stationed 200 loyal soldiers, and it is said that Blanquet gave the pledge demanded, recognizing that Huerta held the whip hand.

MEXICO, CITY, May 2.—The action of President Huerta in forcing Porfirio Rojas, minister of foreign affairs, to resign is believed to be due to information secured by the President that his cabinet officer was scheming with General Blanquet, minister of war, to overthrow the government though the semi-official explanation as given out by officials today was that friction had arisen over the mediation proposals made by the Latin-American nations.

Senor Ruiz, who has been named to succeed Rojas said

HUERTAS' FAMILY TEARS RE-ARREST

By A. M. JAMESON
Special correspondent of the International News Service with the Atlantic fleet.

VERA CRUZ, May 2.—Reports from Mexico City that General Huerta has forced his Foreign Minister, Senor Portillo y Rojas, from the Cabinet and has broken with his War Minister, General Aureliano Blanquet, indicated today that affairs are rapidly approaching chaos in the capital.

Refugees report that there is a well founded rumor in the Mexican capital that General Huerta has made arrangements for his family to flee. Some believe that Huerta secretly sent his wife and son and other relatives out of the city on Wednesday, probably toward Manzanillo, where the Japanese cruiser Izumi is lying.

MAAS TO PROTECT COURIER

The following statement was issued today at the French consulate:

Mr. Broutet, the French consul at Vera Cruz, held an interview with General Guadalupe Mas, the Federal commander, at which it was agreed that the consul's car in Vera Cruz might send an agent through to Mexico City once a week, for official mail and other purposes. General Mas promised protection to the train and expressed his willingness to accompany it in keeping rail and wire communications between Vera Cruz and Mexico City open.

Rear Admiral Fletcher and General Mas have extended great aid to the consul's agent in carrying out the work they have done. All Americans and other foreigners with whom Mr. Broutet has talked are anxious to follow a policy of peaceful waiting for the time being.

General Mas expressed his personal desire that the trouble be settled by mediation. He knows nothing of the reported plan of General Huerta to come here.

General Mas, former American chargé, who sailed for Galveston last night with his family on the Yankton, should arrive in Washington on Wednesday night or Thursday. He expressed regret at leaving Mexico and told friends he did not believe he would ever come back.

Rear Admiral Badger has received no word from Washington as to his future course. It seems he is to follow a policy of peaceful waiting for the time being.

MOST POWERFUL FLEET

When the Connecticut arrives tomorrow and the superdreadnaught New York steams into port on Monday, Rear Admiral Badger will have the most powerful fleet ever assembled under one command. One dreadnaught from his fleet could level Vera Cruz.

A military regime prevails here, the civil government headed by Robert J. Maer, having been taken over by Brigadier General Funston. In his capacity as military commander, General Funston will be in sole command. He will exercise the judicial functions and guard the city with his army. The idea to read the military police with civilians has been abandoned.

There has been a wonderful change

REBELS WILL USE "NEUTRAL ZONE" AS "BASE OF OPERATIONS"

By ALFRED HENRY LEWIS.
WASHINGTON, May 2.—Events have been their current; the town is marking time.

Mexico?

No one fancier for one famous moment that "mediation" will succeed. How shall you "mediate" with wolves and rattlesnakes. Huerta will continue his drive and murder in the Villa will continue his murdering and looting, with a little less in the Villa.

General?

Mediation as a wet-laid towel, was never more than the mark which Villa put on when he was asked the burning question. Thus he will remain, until Villa's demands are met, a profit, put him out of business by the Villa's demands. He will not depend upon Villa himself not being cut out of business first, a certain victory, not at all remote.

There is one question which worries. Are our troops at Vera Cruz? No, they are not. They are not in the main in that path-hole of a town. They are in the main in the main. They must either go back to Galveston or stand fast.

Which shall it be? So given are the "neutrality" of the Villa, the Villa will "watchful" watching that Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan together couldn't give you a reply.

CANAL MUST BE FREE

The Senate is solemnly the Wilson pro-English canal measure. In a momentary lapse of memory Mr. Wilson said that Mr. Carnegie and the rest of the Senate, the income, am still of the opinion that the canal should be free and that Rockefeller ought to have a free country's canal built for the benefit of the people.

The canal should be free and will be free.

As a companion piece to Mr. Wilson's pro-English canal policy, one Smith, in the House from Maryland, has offered a bill to trade England also of Southern Alaska if she will "bear up the Hay-Poundstone" to the aid, the thing is called an "Administration" measure.

Situation Now
Beyond Control of the Dictator

Huerta cannot control the situation. He has had a serious quarrel with Blanquet. The ministerial Secretary of War, who instigated the overthrow of Huerta, is ready to surrender Huerta, whom he helped put in power. Huerta is selling out automobiles and is preparing to make a dash stand in the castle of Chapultepec if driven to the last ditch. The castle is on a hill overlooking the city and is used partly as a military academy.

MEXICANS SEE U. S. MARTIAL GLORY IN EL PASO FARADE

By EDWARD H. HAMILTON.
EL PASO, Texas, May 2.—The grape juice was seen to have resolved itself into a picture and a parade. Special Envoy Carothers is going to join Special Envoy Pennington and some of the Constitutionalists in a jaunt to see Carranza at Chihuahua.

They go today with the women of their household and may fare on with Don Bonabates when he moves his family to Monterrey, while the men may view the fighting at Saltillo and Tampico from some safe eminence.

And General Pershing is going to parade his 8,000 men through the streets of El Paso awards clanking, banners waving, and the desert and looking on barrel and bayonet. And that is why by day the American flag has become a picnic and a parade.

Meanwhile American property in El Paso is being looted and destroyed, and when the owners are not found they are being looted and destroyed. The owners are being looted and destroyed. The owners are being looted and destroyed.

DR. RICKETTS INDIGNANT

Some such message was brought back by Dr. L. D. Ricketts, who went to Washington to ask that in case of a revolution in Mexico the American troops be rushed to Chihuahua to save from destruction American property there—property which is being looted and destroyed.

When Dr. Ricketts passed through the city with his wife and children, he was met by a crowd of Americans who were looting and destroying property. He was met by a crowd of Americans who were looting and destroying property.

WANT SAVE OIL FIELDS

Both England and the United States wanted protection for the windmills of valuable oil fields of Tampico—the oil fields that are richer than any other in the world.

To England there was a polite message that comes from the United States that the United States will not grant the United States the oil fields of Tampico.

On this request Don Bonabates sent a message to the United States that the United States will not grant the United States the oil fields of Tampico.

REBELS WILL USE "NEUTRAL ZONE" AS "BASE OF OPERATIONS"

CHICAGO, May 2.—The refusal of General Venustiano Carranza to make the foreign-owned property around Tampico a neutral zone was explained by Constitutionalists here today. They said that if the plan were put into effect the Constitutionalists would not have any more for their private property in the oil fields around Tampico.

A statement to this effect has been sent to George C. Carothers, special agent of the State Department at Tampico, and to British Consul H. C. Byrnes. The statement said that Carranza, in his official position of first chief of the Constitutionalists army would afford every necessary protection to American and other foreigners in the campaign.

ASK FOR VOTE ON AMATEUR "PRO" MEETS

NEW YORK, May 2—To decide whether or not professional athletes should be allowed to vote in the same district as amateurs, James E. Sullivan, chairman of the National Registration Committee of the Amateur Athletic Union, today issued a general letter calling for a vote on the subject.

The legality of "pro" and amateur athletes voting in the same district has been a hot issue since when Clin McCleod, a professional basketball player, was granted a special permission to hold two district names in the 1952 election.

The McCleods pointed out that such a situation has also arisen in other sports. They declared that, if the law is not changed, they would hold the granted names in the 1956 election and might bring the events for professionals and amateurs to a standstill.

"The law has always been strictly different at each election," the McCleods pointed out.

While there is no law in the A. A. U. which prohibits such a meeting, it has always been the custom of the Metropolitan District Committee to restrict that amateurs and professionals should not compete in the same district.

Where a single law is changed, the McCleods charged, the professional athletes would be able to vote in the same district as the amateurs.

The McCleods said that the athletes who live in this district Committee district are what are the epitome of citizenship and that on the basis of the result of the vote they will be announced in the near future.
